

Project S

Task D – Sitting on Top of the World

When it comes to sailing things have been going smoothly on your journey lately, and you have been going quite some distance. But it was a really long time since you left home and sometimes you can't help but feeling a little bit homesick. As you sit at night alone under the stars you think about all the people back home, your friends and family whom you haven't seen in such a long time. Sometimes it got so tough that you even felt like giving up and return home. But quitting isn't your game so of course you carried on.

You and your friend were sailing hard the last couple of weeks. You kept on going day and night, struggling to stay awake no matter how tired you were. You would have done anything to get you to your favourite destination.

A lot of the time it felt like you were never going to get there, but finally the day has come. At long last you have reached the place of your dreams!

Feeling solid ground under your feet again is just wonderful. You are dying to explore this wonderful place, but first things first. Nobody can be an adventurous explorer on an empty stomach. You have got to eat before you can think of doing anything else. You enter the door to the nearest restaurant, then you instantly stop just inside the door to let your eyes adjust to the darkness in there. Smoke is hanging heavy in the air, making it even harder to see what is going on in the room.

You realise that as soon as you stepped through the door everything got absolutely quiet! Someone turned the music down, everybody in the room stopped talking and now their eyes are glued to you. It feels like a scene from a gangster movie. You desperately want to leave again, and so you turn around to open the door. But then you hear a voice saying your name loud and clear... You turn around slowly, not believing your eyes when you see...

Task D

So, where are you now? Where in the world is the land of your dreams? What happens to you there? Who on earth is the person saying your name in a place so far away from home?

You are going to write a text about your adventure. This is going to be in your text:

- ✿ What it feels like to reach the harbor in the place of your dreams, and what it looks like.
- ✿ What happens in the restaurant with the person who for some reason knows your name.
- ✿ You can't go to the most exciting place in the world and not take a look around. Write about some sightseeing that you do. Pictures are more than welcome!
- ✿ Any ideas of your own, remember it's about telling a story!